

Intro & Ethics

Cyber Security

Scenario 1

- A student has a homework assignment that requires research on the internet.
- Currently, they do not have access to internet at their house.
- The student's neighbor does not have a password for their wifi so they use their neighbor's internet.

Scenario 1

- What would you do?
- Did the people involved act ethically?
- Who was harmed in this interaction, who is the victim?

Scenario 2

- A friend of mine told me about a new musician I might like.
- I checked to see if their music was available streaming but it was not.
- I went to a file sharing site and downloaded their most recent album without paying.
- As it turns out, I really like the artist and have since purchased other albums and attended a concert.

Scenario 2

- What would you do?
- Did the people involved act ethically?
- Who was harmed in this interaction, who is the victim?

Scenario 3

- In my Cyber Security class, we learned about breaking into a MasterLock lock.
- I wanted to show my friends how easy it was.
- I opened their locker and showed them all of their stuff I was able to remove without them knowing.

Scenario 3

- What would you do?
- Did the people involved act ethically?
- Who was harmed in this interaction, who is the victim?

Scenario 4

- The school blocks sites like YouTube for students but not for teachers.
- My teacher knows that I am doing work for class that requires YouTube.
- If I ask, they always type in their password so I can access the video.
- Chrome asked if I wanted to “remember password” after they left, so now I can access YouTube without asking.

Scenario 4

- What would you do?
- Did the people involved act ethically?
- Who was harmed in this interaction, who is the victim?

Scenario 5

- I really like Game of Thrones.
- I don't want to pay for HBO.
- I use a password from a friend to access their subscription to HBO.
- In turn, I give my friend my password for HULU.
- Dragons are awesome!

Scenario 5
